

Ms. Hiral Panwala Khajanchi

General Secretary
2003-2004

To get into a good college means to get good education and become successful in career, right? Well, to me, getting into a good college means making good friends, meeting good teachers and creating good memories that will last forever.

When I had joined SPB College, it was the only English Medium commerce college with an independent management and infrastructure. The campus had an aromatic air of youthfulness and uncanny resemblance to the college-cult as found in Bollywood movies. It was called "the most happening college of Surat" and "the ultimate place to be, was SPB". We did not have exposure to the social media then but the staircases, compound walls and the paadis acted as social networking platforms for us (Boss that was 15 years back!). The aisle to the main building with garden on both the sides acted as ramp for the fetching girls and boys who all had impeccable taste in latest fashion. The campus was the class-bunkers' paradise. But, I have to also say that the classrooms were the centers of knowledge where the subjects were taught by the most efficient and astute faculties. The best part of my entire three years of the college was the cool guru-shishya bonding and the love and affection I got from my professors at SPB. I participated in several competitions, youth festivals and mock parliament events under the guidance and direction of our savvy professors. Besides, the election of GS in SPB has always been one big gala affair. These elections were spiteful but not deadly for sure. I had filed for candidature as GS in my third year of college and for the very first time in the history of the college I became the first female GS. Well, it was a lot of hard work and the bit of destiny. I wish more female GS(s) to get elected in times to come.

SPB has now completed 25 years of its existence and it is the moment of pride for all of us. It is said that "Twenty-five" is when things start to change and begin to turn-over. This is very true because this college has produced the best of CAs, businessmen and MBAs that we have in our city and now it will produce even more and better than the best. SPB has been doing great work and I am sure that with the best team of faculties and management it will continue to shine.

SPB Truly ROCK S !!
